The Statewide Resource Network (SRN) is an online catalog of Michigan State University programs and resources for working professionals.

“Each page of the Statewide Resource Network is a concrete example of how MSU translates new ideas into practical knowledge that improves the quality of life for Michigan residents.”

Lou Anna K. Simon, Ph.D.
President
Michigan State University

The SRN catalogs more than 1,000 outreach programs and services that connect MSU experts and research knowledge with practitioners working in government, business and industry, education, agriculture, nonprofits, health care, law, and the media.

Resources profiled on the SRN are searchable by keyword, type of program or service, topic, and location. Find professional development opportunities, clinical services, expert consultants, art exhibits, and more. Topics range from agriculture to medicine to technology. Choose a workshop near you or a self-guided certificate course that’s available online, from any location. Look for research expertise to help you solve a business or community problem.
Refine your search geographically, by program category, or by subtopic.

Search by keyword or browse by topic.

Contact the resource or look for more options.

Topics
- Agriculture
- Animal care
- Arts and letters
- Business, labor, and industry
- Children, youth, and families
- Community and economic development
- Education
- Engineering
- Environment
- Government and law
- Health and medicine
- Natural sciences
- Social sciences
- Technology and communications

Programs
- Applied research (consulting, programs, and centers)
- Arts and events (collections, exhibits, tours, and demonstrations)
- Community service by MSU students
- Conferences, workshops, seminars, and training (noncredit)
- Continuing professional education (degree and certificate programs and courses)
- Medical and clinical services
- Publications, software, and databases

Locations
- City
- County
- Region
- Statewide
- Online

Visit the SRN at:
msustatewide.msu.edu

University Outreach and Engagement
Michigan State University
Kellogg Center, Garden Level
East Lansing, MI 48824-1022
Phone: (517) 353-8977
Fax: (517) 432-9541
E-mail: srn@msu.edu