April, 2013-	Director, National Collaborative for the Study of University Engagement
July, 2019	University Outreach and Engagement, Michigan State University
January, 2008-	Co-Director, National Collaborative for the Study of University Engagement
March, 2013	University Outreach and Engagement, Michigan State University

- Provides leadership for the Office for Public Engagement and Scholarship (OPES) which advances Michigan State University’s engagement mission by supporting faculty, staff, and students in their community-engaged research and creative activities, teaching, and service. OPES also contributes to the University’s reputation as a national and international leader in community engagement by ensuring that MSU is represented in critical organizations, contributing to the literature, and through other scholarly activities.
- OPES facilitates work in the following key areas:
 - Community-engaged research: Supporting and consulting on the design, implementation, and assessment of collaborative research
 - Faculty and professional development: Coordinating and providing educational opportunities that build capacity for community-engaged scholarship
 - Facilitation of mutually beneficial university-community partnerships, including:
 - Community partnerships: Fostering and facilitating networks of potential partners
 - Workforce and economic development partnerships: Supporting partnerships aimed at regional and state economic growth
 - Arts and cultural partnerships: Fostering and supporting collaborative arts and cultural partnerships
 - Institutional research, policy, and recognition, including:
 - Conducting institutional research (see below)
 - Fostering recognitions of exemplary community-engaged work (see below)
 - Promoting policies supportive of community-engaged scholarship and university outreach
 - Providing consultations with other higher education institutions and organizations
- Provided leadership for the National Collaborative for the Study of University Engagement (NCSUE) at Michigan State University. The Collaborative promoted original scholarship on the role of engagement in institutions, faculty careers, scholarship, and public life. I jointly supervised a staff of researchers, and manage departmental budgets, resources, and planning. NCSUE was merged with several another unit to form OPES in 2019.
- Leader of institutional research, policy, and recognition activities.
 - Project leader and member of the original research team that developed the Outreach and Engagement Measurement Instrument (OEMI), an online faculty survey instrument that collects data about community-engaged scholarship and university outreach for institutional planning (e.g., support institutional culture and context for community engagement by MSU scholars), information for external stakeholders (e.g., legislature, alumni, the public), and learning and disseminating new strategies for data collection on the engaged scholarship. Contributed to development of research questions and methodology, instrument and database design, iterative pilot testing process, and institutional rollout, including public awareness and training efforts. Currently leading efforts to establish new strategies for collecting and disseminating this data.
 - Project leader for the Spartan Public Engagement Map project. The SPEM utilizes OEMI and other institutional data, ESRI data, and ArcGIS technology in a web-based application to generate maps of the locations of MSU community partners, activities, facilities, etc. and a searchable database of projects and activities. The project began as a simpler mapping pilot in Spring, 2022 focused on Detroit, Michigan. Partnered with the Remote Sensing and GIS unit of the Department of Geography. Beginning in 2023 it received Provost support for further development over the next three years.
 - Led and participated in the utilization of OEMI and other institutional data in the preparation of University-wide NCA accreditation and Carnegie classification self-studies. Developed partnerships with other institutions for use of the OEMI platform and other data collection strategies that are focused on the unique qualities of community-engaged scholarship and university outreach.
- Leads development and support for outreach and engagement recognitions and honorifics.
 - Chairs UOE Awards Mini-Team and previously chaired committee commissioned by the Associate Provost to study and make recommendations regarding MSU awards.

- Acted as unit liaison to the planning of the "Meet Michigan" faculty development program (1999-2003).
- Served as project manager and a substantive content leader for the Spartan Youth Programs website, a public portal into the University's program offerings for Pre-K children through twelfth grade students (<http://spartanyouth.msu.edu>). Contributed to information architecture, usability evaluation, editorial process design, staffing, coordination of consultant work, and market research.
- Served as project manager and a substantive content leader for the MSU Statewide Resource Network website, a public portal into the University's outreach programs and resources across the state (discontinued in 2021). Contributed to information architecture, usability evaluation, editorial process design, staffing, coordination of consultant work, and market research.
- Developed and managed the faculty/staff training program for use of the MSU Course Load, Instruction, Funding, and Modeling System (CLIFMS) outreach module, a system used to report faculty noncredit instructional activities.
- Assessed the hardware, software, and networking needs of the University Outreach staff, investigated new communication and management technologies, and made recommendations.

May, 1994- Graduate Research Assistant

May, 1998 University Outreach, Michigan State University

- Participated in an evaluative study of efforts to promote change in MSU's organizational culture with regard to university outreach. Reviewed and collected data from university-wide annual planning documents (all college reports for three target years). Conducted narrative analysis of the data exploring how outreach was being defined, the extent to which it was discussed, and how it was situated among unit priorities as a reflection of culture change at Michigan State during the years of the W.K. Kellogg Foundation – MSU Lifelong Education Grant (1988-1995).
- Designed a database, conducted interviews, and prepared an administrative report as part of an evaluation of a seed grant program for faculty outreach projects (All University Outreach Grant Program).
- Served as a proceedings rapporteur at the Michigan State University Capstone Symposium of the W.K. Kellogg Foundation – MSU Lifelong Education Grant in East Lansing, Michigan (1995).
- In conjunction with the MSU Office of Planning and Budgets and Libraries, Computing, and Technology division, I participated in the design and development of the CLIFMS outreach module.
- Developed and added content to a database of statewide faculty outreach activities in support of a publication for University stakeholders. Began adapting the database for use in the development of a website to provide public access to information about MSU outreach across Michigan (which became the MSU Statewide Resource Network website).
- Worked with contracted programmer to develop the first website for the University Outreach office.
- Managed outreach electronic mailing lists; scanned of higher education for new trends, programs, and issues relating to outreach and distance learning; provided web and internet support for marketing campaigns.
